Poorly Nourished Women—They Just Can't Hold Up

Are you getting poor nourishment from your food, and restful sleep? A poorly nourished body just can't hold up. And so for that run-down feeling, that nervous fatigue—don't neglect it!

Cardinal for lack of appetite, poor digestion and nervous fatigue, has been recommended by mothers to daughters—women to women—for over fifty years.

Try it! Thousands of women testify that it helped them. Of course, it is not a magic pill, but a physician.

POTASH

Easier TO PICK

BOLLS that are small, hard, and fail to open properly due to cotton rust (potash starvation) are hard to pick. They slow up harvest and cause growers an annual loss amounting to millions of dollars. Even with excessive rainfall, in many sections this year rust damage has been as severe as it was during the dry weather last year. There is only one known way to control cotton rust—USE MORE POTASH. In addition to controlling rust, potash produces larger yields, and heavier seed and bolls. It makes more lint per seed, better grade, longer staple, stronger fibers, and a higher percentage of normal fibers. . . . Plan now to produce a crop next year that will grow normally to maturity. It can be done by using a fertilizer containing 6 to 10% potash and a nitrogen-potash top-dresser if necessary. Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer about the right amounts of potash in your cotton fertilizer.

READ THE ADS

An interesting little personal paragraph in today's paper from one of our correspondents tells how "A number of ladies were shopping in... last week, the cool weather making it necessary to go hunting for coats and sweaters to keep the chill away."

Our own social "personal" column carries every week the names of Statesboro ladies who visit that same city, and who visit it for the same reason, though it is not always openly announced. There are among our business friends some who doubt the propriety of making mention of those comings and goings, assuming that such publicity tends to discredit our own local establishments. We wonder if it does, and if so, we wonder who is to blame?

During recent weeks our advertising columns have carried some real interesting and worthwhile announcements from local merchants pertaining to their offerings of wearables. Maybe they haven't offered coats and sweaters of exactly the style or price that would suit every lady; maybe those ladies who visit other cities are merely not impressed with the fact that Statesboro merchants were offering such merchandise.

This truth stands out, however, merchants in other cities would not be inducing out-of-town customers if those out-of-town customers were not led to believe that they might be better fed there than they wish. May be these merchants in that other city have more forcefully presented their offerings—perhaps more consistently or boldly. Who knows what it takes to influence a woman's buying mind?

Anyway, the columns of the Bulloch Times are open to the home merchant who has costs and sweaters, to make known to our readers exactly what he has to offer them. We can't help but believe that Statesboro ladies—Bulloch county ladies—would rather buy from those home merchants to whom they so often themselves appeal for the little community aids which are essential to the building up of a community. If the ladies of Statesboro and rural communities are free to ask favors of Statesboro merchants and business men, certainly they count these merchants and business men their friends.

WHAT SPOILS EDITORS

This heading has been used already heretofore, and the answer has been given that flattery or overmuch praise is as harmful to an editor as to most persons. It is difficult for any person to properly estimate his own worth when even a few others are whispering meaningless nothings into his ear—the inclination is to magnify the good and to discount the disparaging things said.

It greatly tends to spoil an editor when some person from far away writes to offer praise. If such an editor is wise, he will look under the chip when he upturns it, and he may discover a motive.

Last week this column received from a city a thousand miles distant a letter in which these words were used: "I am undertaking the creation of a daily feature in which it is my purpose to glorify the country editor. In a thorough canvass of the nation your paper has been singled out as one of the few that I shall want to read religiously to the end that I may get closer to the heart of the soil and the common sense of the crossroads. Naturally, I shall give you full credit for what I pluck from your columns. We hope you put me on your subscription list, addressing the paper to—"

And there was signed the name of the distant flatterer.

Turned over, the chip showed that it was addressed to the personal name of another who has never been editor of the Bulloch Times nor had anything to do with its publication. The embarrassing element was in the wonder how this distant friend had obtained the name of the other person instead of our own. The question still stands, did he intend to ad-

CHANGE IN TITLE

SOCIAL SECURITY

This Department Hereafter Be Known As "Bureau of Old Age Insurance."

J. W. Overstreet Jr., field manager of the social security board office at Savannah, calls attention to the fact that the term "Bureau of Old Age Insurance" has been substituted for that of "Bureau of Old Age Benefits."

This is the division of the Social Security Board which administers provisions for working people who qualify for old age insurance.

It was pointed out by Mr. Overstreet that the change in name will aid in clearing up misunderstandings concerning the two old age measures of the Social Security Act—that is, Aid Age Assistance and Old Age Insurance.

"Old Age Assistance (public assistance for the aged), is a relief measure intended to provide financial aid for people 65 years of age or over who are unable to work and have no other means of support," said Mr. Overstreet. Old Age Insurance is based on wages and will be paid to wage earners who are entitled to it in a month or two longer.

The foregoing is from our esteemed contemporary, the Claxton Enterprise. This newspaper is not at all familiar with the incident or incidents which may have given rise to this complaint; nor is it in position to make judgment of the change in the name of the Social Security Act. It is in the process of establishing rates there have been errors made, we are sure they will be corrected in the interest of fairness to all parties.

However, we believe the taxpayers of Bulloch county will be pleased rather than annoyed to learn that the local collector of internal revenue, The Social Security Board keeps the basis. Municipal or county-owned institutions of this kind are too often mistaken for charitable institutions, and as such are called upon to operate frequently as a burden upon the taxpayer.

Mr. Overstreet stated that about 34 million workers have applied for accounts under the federal old age insurance program and that every person who is working under this system has already begun to accumulate credits toward the benefits they will receive in later years.

Ginnings for Season 1,768 Bales Short

Census report shows that there were 18,395 bales of cotton ginned in Bulloch county from the crop of 1936 prior to October 1, as compared with 20,163 bales ginned to October 1, crop of 1935.

Counties are getting by at the prescribed 10 per cent in the social security program. The general report ran from 12 to 15 per cent instead.

Judge Houlahan, of Chatham, made the statement that his county is called upon to expend approximately $2,300 for this cause monthly, whereas Chatham's share of the burden should be not exceeding $300. The intent of the resolution adopted was that the state should share with the counties in the costs of operating the social security work.

Mr. Lee Moore, former congressman, present as a spectator and taxpayer, took occasion to throw some ginger into the discussion when he chided the commissioners for their shut-mouth attitude in the matter. He declared that the matter of taxation being considered is a momentous one, and that the commissioners "ought not to be afraid to speak out on the matter."

He declared vehemently against any tax exemption as favoritism and unfair; and traced the efforts of reformers to change the burden from tangle to tangle, which efforts, he asserted, have so far been defeated. He declared also strongly against centralization of government, and made the declaration that Georgia centralization was begun under the late Governor Russell in his reorganization plans.

"I made the power," declared Mr. Moore, "and then Eugene Talmaud came along and put that power into operation—and the whole thing blew up."

Chairman Matthews declared that all the talk about "intangibles" has failed to bring results so far, and will continue to fail—the present laws, he said, take off taxes, and do not put on taxes.

At 1 o'clock the meeting adjourned for the day, after which the visitors and a few local citizens were guests of Chairman Hodges and the board of county commissioners at dinner at the Woman's Club room. Following the dinner there, Chairman Hodges presiding, short talks were made by Dr. M. L. Pittman, of Teachers College, and Mayor J. L. Renfro.

to be a 1,500-watt bulb, four bulbs to the cluster, and eleven clusters—a total of 66,000-watt power. Incidentally it is understood that the cost of operating these lights will be approximately $3 per hour.

The financial of the new field is being done through the aid of friends who are giving their credit to the project. It is explained. Fifty friends are being asked to give their notes for $50 each. These notes are to be hypothecated at the banks for the funds required for the construction of the system. When placed in use, the Athletic Association will make a fixed charge for the use of the field, and the revenue thus derived will be applied to the retirement of the outstanding notes. It is thus promised that subscribers to the fund will not be required to pay their notes, since the receipts from the field will be expected to meet this cause, certainly no person will ever be called upon for more than the amount of his original note—$50.

Great praise is being given to those who have taken the lead in providing this much-needed sports facility for this community.

A. D. SOWELL SR.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Fellowship Baptist church for A. D. Sowell Sr., aged 75, of which church he was a member. He died Monday night in the Bulloch County Hospital after undergoing an emergency operation. In the passing of Mr. Sowell this community has lost a noble citizen and a true and loyal friend. The large concourse of people and the large number of floral offerings were a token of respect showing the high esteem in which he was held in the county. He and Mrs. Sowell celebrated their golden wedding January 18, 1935. Rev. Wm. Kitchen, of Statesboro, pastor of Fellowship church, Rev. C. M. Colson and Rev. H. L. Speed officiated. Burial was in the church cemetery.

TEACHERS TO GET THEIR FULL SALARY

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18 (GFS).—State School Superintendent M. D. Collins announced yesterday that the department of education will pay all Georgia teachers the full salaries due them in October under the seven months' program of state support of common schools. The announcement followed a recent statement that a general reduction of 15 per cent in budgets of all departments would be extended for the next three months to the school fund.

October is the first month during which the school fund has not been used generally throughout the state to aid local school systems in paying their teachers. The state scale ranges from $40 to $80 a month, depending upon the training and experience of the teachers, and constitutes a minimum basis which local systems can supplement with their own money.

In an Ohio prison the cells have been equipped with radio sets so that this action is unconstitutional. It comes in the catalogue of cruel and unusual punishment.

YOUNG FARMERS TO HOLD MEET SATURDAY

The young farmers' organization started here some two months ago will hold its second meeting in the court house Saturday, October 23, at 2:30 p. m. These young farmers, ranging in age from about 16 to 25, have as their objective in the organization to study methods of purchasing and paying for a home. Plans for a permanent organization will be perfected at this meeting.

The program for Saturday afternoon will be a discussion of plans under the tenant purchase program that is now being set up. R. E. Nesmith will outline methods he used in buying and paying for his farm during the depression period. A. S. Baisey and Miss Emma Nelson, assistant state club leaders, will meet with the group and assist with plans for the permanent organization.

RAIL COSTS SOAR, SAYS THE JOURNAL

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18 (GFS).—"Reports are being made by the Interstate Commerce Commission by the railroads conveying, though not necessarily alarming news. Costs of operation have risen so sharply in recent months that increased gross revenue is yielding decreased net income," declares the Atlanta Journal in a recent editorial discussion of the plight of American railroads.

"The first fifteen railroads to submit statements showed gross revenues of $301,300,000 as compared with $102,500,000 in August, 1936. The gain was only eight-tenths of one per cent, still it was a gain. However, net income of the fifteen was $17,670,000 as compared with $20,750,000 in August, 1936. So despite an increase of almost one per cent in gross, the carriers suffered a loss of 15 per cent in net."

"On the one hand come demands for decreased freight rates; on the other the railroads are increasing wages which seemingly cannot be denied."

One of the popular motion picture plays of the season is the "Lost Horizon." It is a story of adventure in Asia and tells of the discovery of a new world.

LOCAL CLUBSTER ASKED BROADCAST

Bulloch County Youth Chosen From Group of 70,000 Club Boys.

P. W. Clifton Jr. has been selected out of some 70,000 Georgia 4-H club members to discuss his work as a clubster on the Georgia part of the national 4-H club radio program to be broadcast at Atlanta November 6.

Pete Clifton has been one of the outstanding club boys during the past four years, starting with a pig of no particular lines of breeding and developing a project good enough to win the state pig contest championship in 1936. He also won a $100 livestock college scholarship to the University of Georgia College of Agriculture.

Young Clifton's spotted pig grew into a purebred herd of hogs and Angus cattle, which called for developing cotton and corn along with the livestock. After entering the University this fall Pete suffered an illness that prevented him from continuing the fall term. At the present he is at home recovering and hopes to enter the next term. If going to Atlanta to appear on this program will interfere with the progress he is making toward recovery, the invitation will be declined. The doctor supervising Young Clifton's activities at the present is being consulted relative to the matter.

FARM TO FARM

Good corn is always an asset to a farmer, declares D. B. Franklin. After a farmer makes a crop of good quality corn Mr. Franklin thinks it is wise to provide a storage place for it that will keep rats away and to keep weevils out. The crib recently constructed on his farm will do both and insure good corn next summer.

J. W. Rucker thinks that hog feed will pay more if hogs are sold just as fast as they reach "top" weight and the money from the sale put in feeder pigs to put back on the feed.

If paint on the outside of the farm home is cheap insurance against weather damage, it will last longer and give more protection if applied inside and outside, according to Russell DeLoach. Paint on the inside of the house adds beauty to the place in which we live.

Why not provide a place just as good as slaughter the home supply of meat as the various cities require for the meat sold within their limits? asks Cap Mallard. Cap has built a farm slaughter house that is practical on any farm, yet it is not very expensive.

Sales Certificates Due October 30

Sales certificates for cotton sold prior to October 15 are due in the county agent's office no later than October 30, if the producers of the cotton desire to make application for the subsidy payment on the 1937 crop. Sales certificates on cotton sold after October 15 must be filed with the county agent within fifteen days after the date the cotton is to be eligible for the additional payment, according to a telegram from I. W. Dugan, acting director of the southern division AAA, to the state office. Bulloch county farmers are urged by the farm agent not to let this amended ruling catch them short. Filing certificates does not bind farmers to any farm program that might be effective in 1938. However, it is understood that when formal application for the payment is made the producers will agree to co-operate with the 1938 program. Filing these certificates is essential for a farmer to be in line for payment, if he desires to ask for it later on.

Mr. Dugan advises that it probably will not be possible to procure additional extensions of time to file the cotton sales certificates.

RAILROAD LOSES ITS TRUCKING LINE FIGHT

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18 (CNS)—A three-judge superior court hearing last week failed to win for the Seaboard Air Line Railroad the right to operate a trucking line paralleling their tracks. The hearing was upon a mandamus brought against the Public Service Commission to compel issuance of the certificate, denied because the commission insisted that rail and bus service should be maintained upon a competitive basis.

BLACK-DRAUGHT A GOOD LAXATIVE

A COUPLE OF POEMS

(By J. WALTER DONALDSON, JR., Registrar, Ga.)

IF I WERE YOU

If I were you and had your power, O man of master mind, I'd write a poem with words of gold That cause hearts of men to thrill, And yield in sweet response; Which makes our dreams come true, And wipes our tears away. I'd write a poem with words of gold To find sweet joy and peace of mind; To hide their blinding tears, I'd write of love, most tender love, That shines like glowing light, Of wedding bells and shady dells That make the heart delight. Now, why can't I have power like you, O man of master mind? I am inspired down in my heart, But words I cannot find.

LOVE, O TENDER LOVE

Love, O tender love, The love that comes but once— That causes hearts of men to thrill, And yield in sweet response; Which makes our dreams come true, And wipes our tears away. I'd write a poem with words of gold To find sweet joy and peace of mind; To hide their blinding tears, I'd write of love, most tender love, That shines like glowing light, Of wedding bells and shady dells That make the heart delight. Now, why can't I have power like you, O man of master mind? I am inspired down in my heart, But words I cannot find.

WALLACE FAVORS FUTURE CONTROL

Secretary Declares for Program To Aid Farmers and City Folks Alike.

In a recent radio talk over a nation-wide hookup, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace expressed the belief that the agricultural program which is finally worked out from the present series of experiments will take into consideration the welfare of farmers and city people alike.

"Looking toward the future," the secretary said, "I believe there will emerge an agricultural program behind which all farmers and all city people truly interested in the general welfare can stand."

He said he believed the program of the future will include these seven points:

"First, farmers should have a fair share in the national income; the share which will give the average farmer as much purchasing power relative to the average non-farmer as was the case during the 50 years before the World War."

"Second, the welfare of all farmers, and of city people as well, demands that the whole distribution of supply and price of the major crops be evened out as much as possible by the use of the ever-normal granary and crop insurance."

"Third, the people who live on the land must have security of tenure, for their own sake, for the sake of the land, and for the sake of our civilization."

"Fourth, the soil must be used properly, to meet the needs of the present generation, and at the same time be conserved for the sake of future farmers and future city people."

"Fifth, farmers through sound co-operatives must come into control of their own marketing, processing, purchasing and service functions for which they are capable of displaying superior business efficiency."

"Sixth, family-sized farms should be favored by the federal rules of the game having to do with benefit payments and similar aids to rural income."

"Seventh, federal and state funds must be spent to promote agricultural research for farm efficiency, for only by applying the results of scientific research can agriculture meet the demands of a large city population and at the same time husband our natural resources."

RAILROADS FACE SERIOUS THREAT

"Short and Branch Lines" Made To Suffer by Loss of Business.

A new threat to the continuance of railroad service, particularly over "short and branch lines" is discussed by H. D. Pollard, receiver for the Central of Georgia Railway, in a statement published elsewhere in this issue. He says:

"Railroad postoffice cars on many short and branch lines in this territory have recently been abandoned by the U. S. Postoffice Department. Mail pay is an important source of income to the railroads. The loss of this income in many instances threatens the continuance of railway service and make probable the abandonment of these short lines and branch lines."

"No community welcomes curtailment of its mail service, or is pleased at the prospect of losing the railroads that serve it. The communities affected by this economy move have protested to the postoffice department, and the reply to their protests has been that they must not expect the government to contribute to the support of the railroads, that if they wish to continue to receive the service they must patronize the railroads with freight and passengers."

Mr. Pollard admits the justification "from a business standpoint" of the attitude taken by the postoffice department, and says that "taxpayers should not complain when a department of the government acts on business principles and adopts measures of economy."

"It might, of course, be argued that the government subsidizes directly or indirectly such transportation agencies as barge lines, motor carriers and airways, and that to be consistent it should also aid the railroads. But the fact remains that it is the policy of the postoffice department to curtail railway postal service, that the department points out what is unquestionably true—that the way to retain rail service is to use the freight and passenger facilities of the railroads."

Closing Mr. Pollard says: "The handwriting on the wall reads 'abandonment' to the smaller communities, 'curtailment' to the larger communities, if the present tendency continues."

F. I. WILLIAMS, Clerk, Bulloch Superior Court.

Under authority of the powers of sale and conveyance contained in that certain security deed given to me by R. Lee Brannen dated February 8, 1932, recorded in book 98, page 352, in the office of the clerk of Bulloch county, Georgia, I will, on the first Tuesday in November, 1937, within the legal hours of sale, before the court house door in Statesboro, Bulloch county, Georgia, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder, for cash, the property conveyed in said security deed, to-wit:

All of R. Lee Brannen's interest and equity in that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in the 154th district, Bulloch county, Georgia, containing one hundred acres, more or less, bounded north by lands of Mrs. E. N. DeLoach, being the same interest in said land conveyed to R. Lee Brannen by D. A. Brannen by deed dated April 22, 1918, recorded in book 64, page 466, in the office of the clerk of Bulloch superior court; subject to a prior security deed given by R. Lee Brannen to P. C. Walker on December 12, 1928, recorded in book 86, page 28, in the office of the clerk of said county, Georgia, now held by me under a transfer of same by P. G. Walker dated January 6, 1930, recorded in book 89, page 192, in said clerk's office.

Said sale is to be made for the purpose of satisfying the claims of the debtors secured by the security deed first mentioned above, amounting to $840.00 computed to the date of said deed, and the purchaser will be given a deed to R. Lee Brannen's interest in said land, in fee simple, subject to two and one-half acre security deed held by Geo. W. Watson, dated 1932 to 1937, inclusive.

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Central of Georgia

Railway post office cars on many short lines and branch lines in this territory have recently been discontinued by the U. S. Post Office Department. Mail pay is an important source of income to the railroads. The loss of this income in many instances threatens the continuance of railway service and makes probable the abandonment of these short lines and branch lines.

No community welcomes curtailment of its mail service, or is pleased at the prospect of losing the railroads that serve it. The communities affected by this economy move have protested to the Post Office Department, and the reply to their protests has been that they must not expect the Government to contribute to the support of the railroads, that if they wish to continue to receive railway service they must patronize the railroads with freight and passengers.

That reply cannot be criticized because it is entirely justified from a business standpoint and taxpayers should not complain when a department of the Government acts on business principles and adopts measures of economy. It might, of course, be argued that the Government subsidizes directly or indirectly such transportation agencies as barge lines, motor carriers and airways, and that to be consistent it should also aid the railroads. But the fact remains that it is the policy of the Post Office Department to curtail Railway Postal Service, that the department points out what is unquestionably true—that the way to retain rail service is to use the freight and passenger facilities of the railroads.

The handwriting on the wall reads "abandonment" to the smaller communities, "curtailment" to the larger communities, if the present tendency continues.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Between Us

Last week when the referee's whistle announced the finish of the Teachers-Alabama game, the crowd forgot the Teachers were playing ball, at least those in south stadium, because they had become so enthralled over the outcome of the Duke-Tech and Georgia-Holy Cross games. With the Georgia and Tech alumni gathered around Benne's care and getting the scores from these two games, you would have thought they saw the Tech's finish, but that gave Duke the score of one point. Anyhow, the football fans are in their glory now with games scheduled here for the next few weeks and the Georgia-Tech game schedule, and most of the Statesboro fans with choice tickets. If you don't believe our folks turn out en masse for that game, you go to Atlanta and see if you don't see what seems half of Statesboro on the street. By the way, did you folks know that in the next two weeks we are going to have games at night, at the high school, with a co-operation of the city and local organizations, assisting, already have a contract calling for the Municipal Park to have flood lights. One of the most popular young girls went off to visit and came back wearing a beautiful new diamond. The romance didn't happen that quick; it seems her friend and former schoolmate lives in the town the young man teaches in, so now she is a teacher. He is a great fellow, and though young, it makes great headway in his profession. Catherine Dester had such a lovely tea for Adelaide Benne, a recent bride. Mrs. Benne is going to be such an attractive addition to the good old folks. The tea at the home of Ruth Mallard Hamilton urging her to stay over for a few days after her honeymoon so they might entertain her. The tea at the home of Mrs. Ruth was beautiful. Cupids are over on Zetterover avenue and yonder are falling here, there and yonder. Mrs. Benne has a beautiful home. Mrs. Benne's announcement didn't come as such a surprise, as she had been whispering it for some time. We are hoping it will be a big wedding, but Corinne doesn't say yet. Several couples are now being spoken of. People's hobbies, and all along we hear of a new one. Recently, I had the pleasure to see Elizabeth DeLoach, a teacher, take two people to handle it, and it is filled with mementos dating back to Elizabeth's childhood (which isn't very far after all). Fred and Miss Inez Williams' hobby should be raising dahlias. She has some superb ones. There is a new craze sweeping across. Wonder why we didn't have a flower show this fall. Or will we yet?

Outland McDougald and Margaret Williams Sample up from Florida on a visit; Margaret attractively dressed at one of the teas in a black outfit; Outland and Margaret Williams Sample, three Wednesday night to the local Rotary club, made at the International Rotary convention in France last summer. Must tell you a funny story concerning Sue and Dicky Brannen. When Arleen went West she left them a letter, and when she came back, she had to be corrected. Miss Sullie did as she used to do (which books say is not correct now, except the Bible)—she gave them both a spanking, much to their displeasure. Sue looked at her grandmother and said, "If my mother leaves me alone, I'll spank her next time, Grammammy."—Will you see AROUND TOWN.

Some People
We Like--
How and Why

That valuable publication, the "World Almanac," says "there are now more than two billion human beings on earth." So far as the Times is aware they are all likeable, but since this scribble is not personally acquainted with all of them, this column will deal only with the half dozen or so each week who come under our observation—and whom we have special reason to like. For instance—

Wants More School News

(1) She was a little girl when she came with her parents to Statesboro to make her home. She didn't stay here many years, but in those few years she grew into young womanhood, and was active part of the school life of Statesboro; a good musician; a good student; wrote news stories about the school; occupied an important place in young society. Then her family moved elsewhere, and she went with them to their new home. Last week she wrote this paper, not for publication.

"Each week I look forward to the coming of the Bulloch Times, as it is always like a letter from home. I read it from column 'Some People We Like' to the last advertisement. I think it is a fine paper with the exception that it fails to give me the high school football news and the general news about the school. Other than that, it is a very good paper. We like her for her writing to help us by her friendly suggestions. We like anybody who gives us 'constructive criticism.' You'll like the young lady, too, if you know her."

Parking Rules for Calaboose

(2) Enroute to Savannah on a hurried mission, ten miles from Statesboro a stranger with a package in his hand gave the sign to stop; he was a confirmed hitch-hiker, though it was not apparent until we had let him in the car. He told us his troubles—no work where he had been; heard there was plenty in Savannah; no funds to pay fare; therefore, he was hitch-hiking. He had stopped at Statesboro the night before and asked for lodging at the city calaboose; was told that it was crowded with prisoners, and he was a stranger; spent the night in a car on the side-track; no bedding, so almost froze to death. He was so full that times would get better later; was strong for present national administration; against C. I. O. Lewis; thought, however, there was room for improvement in Statesboro's local parking system for the calaboose.

(3) He was a young fellow—his face shows it—and his character is as handsome as his face. When he was a little fellow he came occasionally to this office delivering papers. If he had worn a dress, you would have been sure he was a lovely little girl. Yet he was a boy—a boy who was invited to attend a Boy Scout dinner one evening and to carry a lad along with him. Not having one of his own, he borrowed this little fellow—which is how much we liked him. It seems like a long day from then to now, but the little fellow is a young man, is yet as fine as he was then. Though he has quit delivering papers, we have seen him coming and going about his school work—first in high school, then at Teachers College. Last week he finished his professional education and took a job. We had a picture made of this fine young friend for use last week, but somebody made a mistake and it failed to arrive in time. Today he is steady at work, and will be glad to have his friends call on him for service. We like him for having been so dependable, and for the years we have known him. Do you like that sort of young man?

A Juror Forty-Seven Years

(4) Forty-seven years is a long time to look ahead; it's not nearly so long to look back upon. A middle-aged subscriber to the Bulloch Times attended court here Monday, and the noon recess was in conversation with a group of friends. "Today," he said, "is an anniversary for me; on this date forty-seven years ago I received my first service on the jury." It is not quite that long, but almost, that we began to see and appreciate this man; for almost all the years he has been a subscriber and friend of this newspaper. He has filled his place as a neighbor and builder in his church and community, and despite the years that have passed over his head, he still appears young and cheerful. We like a man who can keep on keeping on—who stays young despite the seventy years since his birth—who stands ready to serve his community and to do his best whenever called upon. You'd like this man if you know him.
